

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

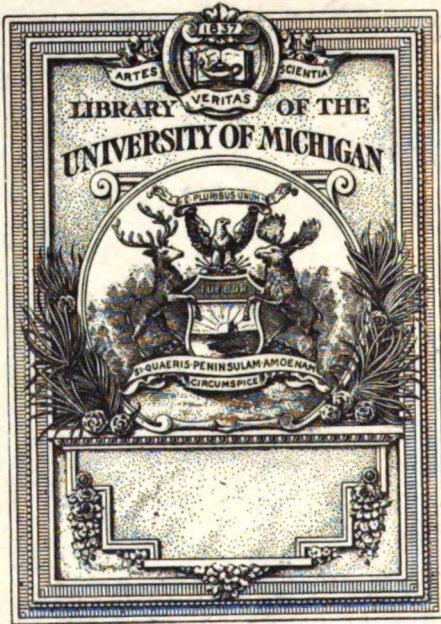

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

P R E F A C E.

IN issuing to the public a New Volume of "Hertslet's Commercial Treaties," forming the Fifteenth of the Series, and containing documents down to the end of the year 1883, it is with no small satisfaction that I am enabled to accompany it with a GENERAL INDEX to the entire work, which is issued as a separate Volume (Vol. XVI). The necessity for such an Index as this must, I feel sure, have long been felt by those who are interested in the Commercial Relations between this and Foreign Countries, owing to the variety of subjects which have hitherto been completely buried under the simple title of "Commercial Treaty," which is that given to all Treaties of Commerce and Navigation; no Table of Contents, or marginal notes, being ever attached to give the general public any clue as to what those important documents may actually contain.

It is not a little surprising that such a system as this should have been continued, not only in this but in other Countries, down to the present day, considering the fact that there are few Treaties of "Commerce and Navigation," so called, which do not relate, beyond the question of the treatment of Ships and their Cargoes, to many other important matters affecting British Interests abroad, such, for instance, as the right of British Subjects to participate in the Coasting Trade of Foreign Countries, the treatment of Wrecks and of the property saved therefrom, the necessity for travellers being provided with Passports or with permits to reside in certain countries, the Payment of Taxes, the Exemption from Service in Foreign Armies and Navies, the Protection of Trade Marks, the Privileges of Diplomatic and Consular Agents, the right to dispose of Property by Will, and occasionally to Extradition, the Slave Trade, and many other Subjects.

These subjects, and a variety of others, which are embodied either in Treaties, or are provided for in the Acts of Parliament, Orders in Council, Foreign Laws, &c., which are inserted in this work, have been carefully separated in this Index; and although the task of preparing it has been very laborious, I have been encouraged in the undertaking by the remembrance of the kind manner in which my previous labours in this direction for the public good have been received by those who have been best qualified to form an opinion as to their utility, among whom I trust I may be permitted especially to mention Earl Granville and the Earl of Derby.

Carefully prepared Analytical Indices were given in the earlier volumes, and when the General Index to the first twelve volumes appeared in 1871, Earl Granville was pleased to express his approval of it through his Private Secretary, in a letter from which the following is a short extract:—

He said: “Lord Granville has examined it (the General Index) in several places, and bids me tell you how much he is struck by the excellence of its plan, and the careful way in which you have worked it out. He sees that it must have cost you an immense amount of labour, and he thinks you have produced a model which others who engage in like tasks would do well to imitate.”

The Earl of Derby was also pleased to convey to me his approval of it in a note, in which his Lordship said:

“Only those who have occasion to search among public documents know how the multiplicity of these in modern times produces almost the same effect as the absence of them in old days. Without some such guide as you have provided it would be well nigh hopeless to try and find what one might want among old Treaties.”

But useful as that Index was generally admitted to be, I still felt that it was capable of improvement in more than one direction; and as fourteen years have now elapsed since it was issued, and many important changes have taken place in our commercial relations with almost every Foreign Power since that time, I have recast the whole upon an entirely new principle.

The main improvement which has been introduced into it has been this: it is arranged, as was the previous one, in alphabetical order, but under Countries and Subjects combined, and not under Subjects only, and instead of the Treaty only being referred to under each heading, the Article of the Treaty has been added in every instance, and a reference given, not only to the volume but to the exact page in which the Article, or Articles should there be more than one, is to be found. This, it will readily be seen, will save those who may be in search of information upon any particular point an immense amount of labour and research, since the mere reference to the volume and page where the Treaty containing the desired information was to be found, which was given in the former Index, useful as it was admitted to be, did not save the student the trouble of wading through the Treaty in order to discover the particular Article in which might be contained the information he was in search of; but all this trouble and research will now be saved to him, inasmuch as, by simply referring to the Index under the subject required, he will find at once a reference not only to the Treaty but also to the volume and page in which the Article appears giving the information desired. Thus, should it be desired to ascertain whether there exists any Article in our Treaty, say, with Portugal, giving the right to British subjects to dispose of their property in that country by Will, a reference to the heading WILLS will show that British subjects have that right by the Treaty with Portugal, Wills, &c., Art. 2, 3rd July, 1842, vol. VI, page 600, to which a note is added stating that that Treaty was in force on the 1st January, 1885.

Another great improvement consists in this. A note has been placed against each important Treaty, whether relating to Commerce and Navigation, Extradition, the Slave Trade, or to any other subject, showing whether it has expired, or whether it was in force on the 1st January, 1885. This will afford the student important information which it has hitherto been impossible for him to ascertain elsewhere with any degree of certainty. A note has also been placed against each Act of Parliament to denote whether it has been wholly or partially repealed, or whether it is still in force.

Where a doubt, however, may be said to exist as to whether any particular Foreign or Colonial Law or other Document was in force on the 1st January last, I have not attempted to solve that doubt by placing any note against it, nor have I thought it necessary to multiply the Notes by placing any against Documents which have lost their interest, except as constituting useful precedents, feeling satisfied that the Notes which I have given will be found amply sufficient for all practical purposes.

A few more instances may be given to illustrate the plan upon which this Index has been prepared.

Under the heading of AFRICA (East, South, and West) will be found, alphabetically arranged, a complete collection of the Treaties and Engagements which have been concluded between this country and the various Native Kings and Chiefs, relating to the Slave Trade, Commerce, &c. Many of these Treaties contain Articles relating to the cession of territory to the British Crown, the admission and protection of Missionaries, Religious Liberty, the erection of Factories and of Schools for the education of the natives, the abolition of Human Sacrifices, the keeping open of Trade Routes, the Navigation of Rivers, and various other subjects which have now been analysed for the first time, and the contents of which can readily be found by referring to the Index under the heading of the subject required.

It is believed that this portion of the Index will be found especially interesting and valuable to Naval Officers.

Again, as one of the main features of this work has always been to define the rights and privileges of British subjects in foreign countries, as well as the rights and privileges of foreigners in England and in the British Dominions, every care has been taken to collect together as much information on this subject as possible. Under the heading therefore of ALIENS, PROPERTY, WILLS, &c., will be found a reference to all the clauses in Treaties between this country and Foreign Powers, as well as to British Colonial and Foreign Laws which relate to those Subjects.

The claims of British subjects which have been recognized by foreign countries, by Treaty or otherwise, are all alluded to under the heading of CLAIMS.

The question of the position of the British Colonies towards the mother country has recently become more than ever important, and all the information contained in this work relating to the Colonies has therefore been specially referred to under the heading of COLONIAL, as well as under each separate Colony; and attention may be drawn to the fact that, owing to the great difficulty which has been found to exist in obtaining access readily to the various Colonial Laws bearing upon such subjects as Aliens, Extradition, Postal Arrangements, Acquisition of Territory, and so forth, all the most recent and important Colonial Acts relating to these matters which have been passed down to the end of 1883 have been inserted in Volume XV.

Under the heading COMMERCIAL TREATIES is given a complete list of the Treaties of Commerce and Navigation now in force between this Country and Foreign Powers; whilst the various subjects to which they relate, such as the privileges of Ships and Cargoes, Reciprocity, Most-favoured-nation Treatment, Trade and Navigation, Wrecks, &c., are also alluded to under their separate headings.

Diplomatic and Consular Rights and Privileges are given under the heading of DIPLOMATIC AGENTS and CONSULS.

Under the heading of COPYRIGHT will be found a reference to all the Treaties which this Country has concluded with Foreign Powers, as well as to the most important Acts of Parliament and Colonial Laws which have been passed bearing upon that subject.

The collection of Extradition Treaties between Great Britain and Foreign Powers has been made as complete as possible, and includes the special Agreements which have been entered into between certain British Colonies and Foreign Countries, as well as the various Imperial and Colonial Laws which have been passed bearing on the subject of the Surrender of Fugitives from Justice. A reference to these documents will be found under the headings of EXTRADITION, OFFENDERS, &c.

The value of such a collection was fully recognized by those who gave evidence before the Committee of the House of Commons on Extradition in 1868, when the earlier volumes of this work were specially referred to.

As this work has from its very commencement been officially supplied to Her Majesty's ships of war, attention may also be drawn to the fact that, in addition to what was stated above with regard to the African Treaties (a selection only from which is given in the "Slave Trade Instructions issued to Naval Officers"), under the heading of NAVY will be found much information with regard to the right of British ships of war to enter Foreign Ports in time of Peace, for the purpose of effecting repairs, of revictualling, or for any other purpose; whilst under the heading of WAR will be found recorded the conditions under which foreign ships of war have been permitted to enter British Ports, or British Ships have been allowed to enter Foreign Ports in time of War. Further information of interest to naval officers will be found under these headings as well as under those of COLLISIONS, DESERTERS, SALUTES, WRECKS, &c.

In order to make the work as complete as possible for those who are interested in POSTAL matters, not only have all Postal and Money Order Conventions between the mother country and Foreign States been carefully collected up to date (31st December, 1883), but also the Postal Agreements which have of recent years been concluded directly between various British Colonies and foreign countries, or between India and Foreign Powers, such, for instance, as those entered into between the United States and Canada and other British Colonies, and between Denmark, France, Italy, Germany, &c., and India. The Accessions of Foreign States to the Postal Union of 1878 have also been inserted.

The question of the SLAVE TRADE and of SLAVERY has always formed an important element in the collection of "Hertslet's Treaties relating to Commerce and Navigation, and to the suppression and abolition of the Slave Trade," ever since its commencement in 1827, now some 58 years since, and under this heading will be found arranged in order of Country a reference to the Treaties which have been concluded with foreign States for the abolition of the Slave Trade, as well as to the Laws which have been passed by various countries for the suppression of the Slave Trade, or for the abolition of Slavery within their respective Dominions.

The usefulness of such a collection of documents was fully recognized by the Royal Commission which sat on the question of Fugitive Slaves in 1876, when this work was specially alluded to.

As Cessions of Territory are not unfrequently mentioned in so-called "Commercial" as well as in other Treaties, and as territorial questions have been brought prominently forward of late, under the headings of TERRITORY and BOUNDARIES will be found references to various Treaties and other documents by which this country has, in modern times, acquired from, or has surrendered to, other Powers, territory or islands in various parts of the world.

These few remarks will, it is to be hoped, be sufficient to show the principle upon which this General Index has been compiled, and it is my earnest hope that a practical reference to it will prove that the endeavours which I have made to render the collection of "Hertslet's Commercial Treaties" still more useful and valuable have not been made in vain.

I should wish it, however, to be clearly understood that I am solely and personally responsible for the various Notes which appear in this Index.

* By an Additional Article, 28th August, 1814, to the Treaty of 5th July, 1814, Great Britain was admitted to trade with Spain, pending the negotiation of a new Treaty of Commerce, upon the same conditions as existed before 1796; the Additional Article also ratified and confirmed all Treaties of Commerce which at that period subsisted between the two nations. By British Order in Council of 18th August, 1852, the Trade and Shipping of Spain were relieved from Differential Duties; and by the Spanish Royal Order of 7th September, 1852, British vessels in the ports of Spain and the adjacent islands were placed on the same footing as Spanish vessels as regards Port and Navigation Dues.

Confirmed by Additional Article, 28th August, 1814.‡

* In force 1st January, 1855.

† Renewed by Treaty, 3rd September, 1783.

‡ By an Additional Article, 28th August, 1814, to the Treaty of 5th July, 1814, Great Britain was admitted to trade with Spain, pending the negotiation of a new Treaty of Commerce, upon the same conditions as existed before 1796: the Additional Article also ratified and confirmed all Treaties of Commerce which at that period subsisted between the two nations. By the British Order in Council of 18th August, 1852, vol. ix, p. 721, the Trade and Shipping of Spain were relieved from differential duties; and by the Spanish Royal Order of 7th September, 1852, vol. ix, p. 722, British vessels in the ports of Spain and the adjacent islands were placed on the same footing as Spanish vessels as regards port and navigation dues.

† By an Additional Article, 28th August, 1814, to the Treaty of 5th July, 1814, Great Britain was admitted to trade with Spain, pending the negotiation of a New Treaty of Commerce, upon the same conditions as existed before 1796; the Additional Article also ratified and confirmed all Treaties of Commerce which at that period subsisted between the two nations. By the British Order in Council of 18th August, 1852, vol. ix, p. 721, the Trade and Shipping of Spain were relieved from Differential Duties; and by the Spanish Royal Order of 7th September, 1852, vol. ix, p. 722, British vessels in the Ports of Spain and the adjacent Islands were placed on the same footing as Spanish vessels as regards Port and Navigation Dues.
